

Carolyn Mock

As a well-known Oklahoma artist, Carolyn considers her artistic talent and the pleasure of being able to pursue her talents a wonderful gift. Each morning she walks the thirty feet to her studio and spends the day oil painting. The easel is positioned to look on the ever-changing world outside the large windows. Canadian geese are often seen visiting the nearby pond to feed and swim. Late in the day, there are deer that frequently show their displeasure when Carolyn disturbs them as she leave the studio to go home for the evening. All of this is enhanced by the music of the many songbirds that are native to Oklahoma.

Besides living and working in such a beautiful environment, Mrs. Mock has made many valuable trips to gather images that help her express what is in her heart. What could be more wonderful to see and to paint than the natural world?

The amazing payoff for enjoying each day of this life is people who want to own the things Carolyn paints. Every time a piece sells, it encourages her to paint something new.

Carolyn Mock is an associate member of Women Artist of the West WAOW and Oil Painters of America OPA. Her works have been displayed in: Gilcrease Museum in Tulsa, Oklahoma, Woolaroc in Bartlesville, Oklahoma and Hilligoss Gallery in Chicago, Illinois.
